

Workshop 5

Introducing supported self-study

Objectives

This session will introduce the remainder of the training for this module. You will also learn about the supported self-study and find out how you follow up the Face to Face Session.

Introduction to supported self-study

Let's look at the plan of the module and find out where you are.

You will see that this module continues with four further units of work, which will be supported self-study. If this is your first module you will also have one additional unit. Know and Understand Information

You will be able to work on them at home and in school.

As its name implies you will be working by yourself but you will not be alone. You will have access to:

- your tutor mentor
- the other teachers who have been with you today
- a regular time for making contact
- an on-line community which consists of everyone who is engaged in this Lottery-funded training.

Contact will be by email at any time and also by email or telephone during your regular contact time.

You will be able to:

- join in discussions
- ask questions
- share information, ideas and suggestions with each other
- share worksheets, datafiles, and presentations.

Note

If you have already completed a module, you will be familiar with the way it works.
